The Welsh Language

Literature and Branding

Our Welsh language policy states that wherever it appears in a public arena, all material produced by public bodies must appear bilingually. Translation of public facing materials should be factored into any job in terms of time and cost.

Under no circumstances should translation be undertaken by a member of staff, no matter what their level of ability in Welsh.

Single-paged leaflets appear with one side welsh, the other side english.

Multiple page leaflets or publications are produced so that the Welsh and English versions read from the outside cover to the centre of the publication.

Wherever possible, both languages should appear on one poster in order to reduce printing costs.

With regards to branding in general the overriding consideration is that the welsh should appear either to the left or above the english in any logo, strapline or publication.
