Gwent Police Child Centred Policing

Putting you first

Gwent Police believe that no child or young person should have to suffer harm, violence, abuse or exploitation.

Gwent Police have written a plan to help officers focus on the issues affecting children and young people.

Gwent Police pledge to:

BUILD stronger relationships between Gwent Police and children and young people.

PREVENT children and young people being drawn into a life of crime.

RESPECT the voices of children and young people.

IMPROVE the life chances of young people who are involved in crime by working with organisations such as the Youth Offending Team.

SUPPORT children and young people who are victims of crime, including those who are exposed to all forms of abuse and exploitation.

Gwent Police pledge to do this by:

BUILDING TRUST

Every time an officer meets a young person it will provide a chance to build a relationship and develop trust.

MORE TRAINING

Officers and staff will receive more training to understand some of the reasons why a young person is behaving in a certain way and will work with other organisations to provide support at the earliest opportunity.

LISTENING

Gwent Police will listen to and respect the voice of every child that they meet, including children from different backgrounds, to help understand the issues that affect their lives.

WORKING WITH YOU

Gwent Police will use the views of young people to help shape the organisation and its actions.
